Hallauer opens art exhibition

The first American exhibition of art by Anna Jud-Hallauer opened Nov. 16 in Los Angeles. The site was the public rooms of the general consulate of Germany. The exhibit will remain through the middle of January 2001.

Hallauer is well known in Europe for her collage style, which centers around the American dollar bill. Her next major project is the creation of two 10ft columns which will flank the entrance to a bank in Switzerland.
